

Abstract

The present invention relates to a linker system for activating surfaces for bioconjugation, and particularly to a linker system having a novel hydrophilic spacer group. The inventive linker
5 system may be used for the construction of sensor chips or biochips for the detection of sample biomolecules.

209110 666000